

Jodi Pahle

Dance Instructor

Jodi Pahle took her first dance class at only 18 months old, and her passion for the art quickly grew from there. She trained recreationally in the years to follow, taking multiple classes every week throughout her elementary school years. In that period, she was trained in jazz, ballet, hip hop, lyrical, contemporary, acro, and more. As she entered her teen years, she began branching out and finding new opportunities to further expand her dance education. After taking classes from multiple world-renowned dancers and reigniting a need to learn and improve, she realized her strengths as a dancer. Along with dance experience, Jodi is a student who has been recognized for her leadership qualities and has been given various leadership positions throughout her years as a student. She hopes to continue finding new dance opportunities and ways to learn as she balances dance and a college education. After 16 years of dance experience and counting under her belt, Jodi is beyond excited to pass down her knowledge of dance to the next generation of students.
